California's Young Child Tax Credit

INTRODUCTION

This publication is designed to help transition-age youth file their taxes and claim a cash back refund. The publication outlines information about tax laws, tax credits and deductions, tax filing requirements, documentation needed to file, and free tax preparation services.

CASH BACK CREDITS EXPLAINED

The EITC helps low-to-moderate-income workers and families get a tax break. If you are eligible, you could qualify for a cash back refund. The maximum amount of credit you could get from the EITC ranges from $1,502 to $6,728 depending on the number of children you have and your income.

Below is a list of who is eligible for the EITC in 2022. See how much you may qualify for online [see Key Resource 1]. You are eligible if you meet at least one of the following conditions:

- Were age 18 and older in 2021 and were in foster care at age 14 or older; or
- Were age 18 and older in 2021 and were homeless in any taxable year; or
- Are a parent at any age filing as the head of household with a qualifying child; or
- Are age 19 or older;

AND all three of the following conditions:

- Have a Social Security Number;
- Have an income of at least $1 in 2021, but less than $57,414;
- Are not claimed as another person's qualifying child or dependent.

To claim the credit you must file your taxes. If you meet the conditions outlined in the first two bullets above, you must check box 27a on your tax return form 1040. By checking box 27a and filing your completed tax return you provide consent to the IRS to confirm that you experienced foster care or homelessness with the appropriate agency.

The CTC helps parents with the costs of raising a child. A parent can receive $3,600 for a child under the age of 6 or $3,000 for a child ages 6 to 17. You do not need to have earned income to qualify.

The CalEITC helps low-income workers and families get a cash refund. The maximum amount of money you could get from the CalEITC ranges from $255 to $3,106 depending on the number of children you have and your income.

Who is eligible for the CalEITC in 2022? See how much money you may qualify for online [see Key Resource 2].

- Are age 18 or older at the end of the tax year or are any age and have a qualifying child;
- Have an income of at least $1 and less than $30,000;
- Have a Social Security Number or Individual Tax Identification Number (ITIN); and
- Live in California for more than half of the tax year.

YCTC is an additional $1,000 provided to parents who qualify for the CalEITC and who have one or more children who were under the age of 6 in 2021.

A stimulus check is a cash payment designed to help financially during the time of the Covid-19 pandemic. In 2020, two stimulus checks were disbursed, first in the amounts of $1,200 per adult and $500 per child, then in the amounts of $600 per adult and $600 per child. In 2021, a third stimulus check was disbursed worth $1,400 per individual and per child.

Individuals eligible for stimulus payments are:

- A U.S. Citizen or Resident Alien;
- Not claimed as a dependent on someone else's taxes;
- Single earning $75,000 or less; or
- A parent earning $112,000 or less; or
- Married earning $150,000 or less.

WHO CAN FILE? WHO HAS TO FILE?

You need to file both state and federal income taxes if you earn more than the tax filing threshold based on whether you are single, a parent (Head of Household), or married. The threshold depends on your age and filing status, but ranges from as low as $12,550 to as high as $25,100.

To find out if you are required to file federal and state taxes, visit the IRS and FTB websites [see Key Resources 3 and 4].

If your income is below the tax filing threshold or you have no income you should still consider filing taxes because you may receive a cash back refund or recover any missed stimulus payments. Here are some great reasons to file your taxes!

HOW TAX FILING BENEFITS FOSTER YOUTH

- Decreases poverty
- Uncovers identity theft
- Ensures access to tax benefit programs
- Maintains eligibility for public benefit programs
- And more!

MONEY IN THE POCKET DURING THE PANDEMIC - TAX PILOT PROGRAM REPORT

Youth who filed through the VITA program at Santa Clara’s Youth Center, “The Hub,” received an average tax refund and stimulus payment of $1,200. This increased youths’ annual income by $1,200 on average, based on their AGI.

The average return for parent filers was 15%, nearly triple the average return of single filers.

60% found they could access

The 2022 tax filing season begins January 24, 2022 and people who owe taxes must file or request an extension by April 18, 2022. Most transition-aged youth do not owe taxes and can file between January 24, 2022 and October 17, 2022.

Once you file your taxes, you will likely be eligible for a cash back tax refund. You can choose whether you would like to receive the money by direct deposit (in up to three different bank accounts) or as a paper check. Usually, you will receive a tax refund electronically within 10 days and a paper check within 4–6 weeks.

TAX PREPARATION

In order to get the EITC, CalEITC, and other tax benefits you have to file your taxes. John Burton Advocates for Youth (JBAY) has created a worksheet to help walk you through what you need [see Key Resource 5]. Gathering the information below will help you file your taxes with confidence:

PRIMARY DOCUMENTS TO FILE

- Mailing address (permanent, shelter, clinic, etc.)
- Social Security Number or Individual Taxpayer Identification Number
- Bank Account and Routing Number
- Last Year's tax return (if available)
- W-2 or 1099s from each job / employment
- Proof of unemployment compensation (Form 1099-G if you received it)
- 1099-INT form if you had a savings account that gained interest last year
- Students with education expenses, tuition & fees (1098-T form from school)

DEDUCTIONS & CREDITS

- Federal Earned Income Tax Credit and California Earned Income Tax Credit
- Child Tax Credit, Child Care and Dependent Tax Credit
- Students with education expenses, tuition & fees (1098-T form from school)
- American Opportunity & Lifetime Learning Credits
- Renters Credit
- Excessive medical bills / expenses
- Retirement Savings Contribution Credit
- Retirement account contributions to IRA or self-employed account
- Charitable contributions or donations

TAX PREP CHECKLIST FOR TRANSITION-AGE YOUTH

- Have your personal information ready
- Gather work, scholarships, income, and earnings documents
- Get the most cash back possible by reviewing your deductions
- See if you qualify for cash back tax credits
- Get all your federal stimulus checks
- Schedule a free tax appointment or file yourself for free

You should file both your state and federal taxes between January 24, 2022 and October 17, 2022. If you earned less than $57,000 you qualify for free tax help [see Key Resources 6 and 7]. Paying for tax services is not recommended.

SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES TO CONSIDER

1

For both federal and state taxes, taxable income includes salary, tips, and vacation and sick pay. Federally, unemployment and disability are taxable, whereas child support is not taxable.

For California state taxes, Social Security, unemployment, CalWORKs, CalFresh payments, foster care payments, welfare payments, Social Security benefits, disability, and state income tax refunds are not taxable. Do not include these payments as part of your income and earnings when you file your taxes.

2

You must have lived in California for more than half of the last tax year and file your taxes using either a Social Security Number or an Individual Taxpayer Identification Number.

3

Education credits can save students up to $2,500. You'll need to get your Form 1098-T to claim the credit from your financial aid account online or from your school's financial aid office. Keep your education receipts for books, supplies, and expenses, they're called qualified expenses. You subtract expenses from grants and scholarships to maximize your cash back education credits.

4

If you don't have a permanent address for a paper refund to be mailed to you, choose direct deposit to your bank account. If you don't have an address or bank account you can still file your taxes and get your refund! With their permission, you can use a health care clinic, shelter, or drop-in center's address as your permanent address and have your tax refund check mailed there.

5

You can receive a paper check by mail or you can ask for the tax refund in the form of a prepaid debit card instead of in the form of a check. To do so, order a prepaid debit card, which you can receive in the mail in 5–7 business days. If you do not have an address, ask a health care clinic, shelter, or drop-in center if the debit card can be sent to their address. Once you have the card, you will see that the card comes with a routing and an account number. On your tax forms, use the card's routing and account numbers to request that the refund be deposited onto that prepaid debit card.

6

You can file your taxes if you are in juvenile hall. A friend, social worker, lawyer, or family member can bring the required tax documents and forms for you to fill out or request an online appointment and access to computer to file your taxes with staff in the hall. Any wages earned while incarcerated or on work release are not income that can be considered earned income for the EITC. Having a conviction on your record does not affect your ability to claim the CalEITC.

7

For both federal and state taxes, only one of the parents can claim the tax benefits relating to the child. The person who claims the child must be the custodial parent. To be the custodial parent, the parent must have the child living with them for more than six months of the year. If the amount of time that the child lived with the two parents is split equally over the last year, then the parent with the highest gross income can claim the child. If the child does not live with parents, then a person may claim tax benefits relating to the child if that person has legal guardianship over the child and if the child lived with the claiming adult for more than half of the days of the last tax year.

8

To find out if someone has claimed you as a dependent, the first step is to file your taxes electronically. If someone claimed you as a dependent, the IRS will decline your return. The IRS does not accept a tax return from someone who has already been claimed as a dependent on another tax return. You will not have to pay a fee. Next, file your taxes by mail. The IRS will begin investigating. You will receive a letter in the mail from the IRS that asks for more information, and so will the other tax filer. The IRS will not tell you who claimed you as a dependent, but one of you will need to amend your tax return [see Key Resource 8]. If fraud is found, then there are penalties that result for the fraudulent party. If you think that someone is claiming you as a dependent that should not be legally doing so, call the IRS Identity Theft hotline number at 1-800-908-4490.

IMPORTANT REMINDER

MONTHLY FOSTER CARE AND INFANT SUPPLEMENT PAYMENTS ARE NOT COUNTED AS TAXABLE INCOME.

Do not include these when you file your taxes:

- FOSTER YOUTH IN SILP: The monthly SILP payment you receive from the county is not counted as income according to the IRS and should not be included on your taxes as income.
- FOSTER YOUTH IN THP-NMD: The monthly THP-NMD payment you receive from your program to assist with expenses is not counted as income and should not be included on your taxes as income.
- PARENTING YOUTH: The monthly Infant Supplement payment is a foster care maintenance payment and should not be included on your taxes as income.

TAX OUTREACH

This Social Media Toolkit assists in getting the word out to transition-age youth about the California Earned Income Tax Credit, Young Child Tax Credit, Child Tax Credit, and the Federal Earned Income Tax Credit.

- 1 Review & circulate all County Information Notices on the CalEITC

- 4 Help TAY prepare to file with the Tax Prep Checklist
- 5 Direct TAY to free tax prep services
- 6 Teach tax and financial literacy during TAY programs and services
- 7 Help TAY file previous year's taxes
- 8 Help TAY save important tax documents securely

LEGAL CHANGES TO TAX CREDITS THAT BENEFIT TRANSITION-AGE YOUTH

The 3.8 million 18- to 24-year-olds who live in California could get cash back if they file their federal and state tax returns. Several federal and state legal changes have the potential to significantly boost the income of youth. Certain populations of transition-age youth are particularly likely to benefit from the CalEITC. These include the nearly 9,000 youth in foster care between the ages of 18 and 21, approximately 900 of whom are custodial parents. California's college students, including undocumented students, are also likely to benefit from the expanded CalEITC as well as youth involved in the juvenile probation system, youth experiencing homelessness, and young adults who are low-income.

In the 2018 tax year, a California resident aged 18 years and older may qualify to receive the CalEITC.

In 2019, the budget for the CalEITC was expanded to raise the maximum income eligibility to $30,000 and increased the maximum credit to $3,027.

In 2019, the Young Child Tax Credit was added, which is an additional credit of up to $1,000 for tax filers who meet CalEITC requirements and have a child under the age of 6.

In 2020, Governor Newsom signed Assembly Bill 1876 and further expanded access to the CalEITC for undocumented Individual Tax Identification Number (ITIN) filers who may now qualify for the CalEITC and the Young Child Tax Credit.

In 2020 and 2021, three federal stimulus checks were issued by the IRS. Transition-age youth who did not receive their checks can file a 2020 and 2021 tax return to recover all three stimulus payments worth thousands of dollars.

In 2021, the American Rescue Plan Act included the expansion of the federal Earned Income Tax Credit so current and former foster youth and youth experiencing homelessness can qualify at age 18. The Child Tax Credit was also modified to further support parents.

FEEDBACK FROM YOUTH WHO FILED WITH OUR PILOT TAX ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

“Many thanks to the VITA tax volunteers! Your time and devotion to helping me is really appreciated, and I am truly grateful. I have been having car troubles and my tax refunds have helped extensively to address these issues.”

“(The VITA volunteer) was so incredibly patient and kind. She walked me through every step and accommodated to anything I needed – in my case I had to do not only this year’s tax return but also the year previous to this, even though I didn’t have all my documents together at once she continued to make the time with me and again, was super patient. I’m so thankful for all of the help! If given the opportunity to go through all of this over again next year, I’d definitely want to go through this process with her!”

“As an adult now, having to pay so much money to get my taxes done was challenging and doing it on my own caused so much stress and anxiety because it is something super important. I’m very thankful for all of your help and your team! I would highly recommend this program for future foster youth to come! This isn’t something that we’re taught, so the fact that you guys are doing it is so great!”

John Burton Advocates for Youth improves the quality of life for youth in California who have been in foster care or homeless by advocating for better laws, training communities to strengthen local practices and conducting research to inform policy solutions.
