Reflection

1. How do you feel about college?
2. What are your fears or concerns about college for your youth?
3. What questions do you have about college?

Student Voices

Youth share about their inner feelings regarding attending college when they were in middle school and high school.

What unique barriers do foster youth face in higher education?

Scenario #1

Elijah is a youth who has experienced several school changes while in care. Could this present a challenge to his college success?

Yes or No?

Yes!

Helpful Tip!

Caregivers can support students to stay in their school of origin if they change placements, if it is determined to be in their best interest.

Learn more at: <http://kids-alliance.org/programs/education/educational-equity/high-school-enrollment-graduation-rights/>

Scenario #2

Ashley is a sophomore at a local high school. She wants to become a graphic designer. However, because of her recent suspension and low grades, her caregivers doubt she will be able to go to or succeed in college. Might the attitude of her caregivers present a challenge to her college success?

Yes or No?

Yes!

Scenario #3

Nicholas, who is doing very well in high school, has been in care most of his life, and his caregivers know that he cannot afford to pay for college. Does a lack of finances mean that Nicholas shouldn't go to college?

Yes or No?

No!

Scenario #4

Rachel is 17 and has lived with multiple resource families; however, she has not developed a relationship with her current family members. She is determined to go to college to study accounting and has been searching online for degree programs. Could Rachel's lack of a relationship with her current resource parents present a challenge to her college success?

Yes or No?

Probably, yes!

Scenario #5

Throughout her life, Irene was exposed to domestic violence and neglect. Now, as an 8th grader, her resource parents are supporting her therapy as she deals with the aftereffects of her trauma. Could complex trauma present a challenge to her college success?

Yes or No?

Probably, yes!

Scenario #6

Devin is a 7th grader diagnosed with dyslexia. Devin is an exceptionally clear thinker, but his reading ability is way below his grade level. He is currently receiving special education services, and with the help of these services he is getting Bs and Cs in his academic classes. Devin wants to be a mechanical engineer and design electric cars. Will Devin's learning disability prevent him from achieving a postsecondary education?

Yes or No?

No!

What is the impact of trauma on educational performance and outcomes?

Impact of Trauma

at Home & in the Classroom

Impaired Sleeping

Changes in appetite

Lower school performance or impaired learning

Changes in behavior

Difficulty focusing or concentrating

Difficulty with authority, redirection or criticism

Emotional Numbing

Over or under reaction to environment stimuli

Difficulty forming trusting relationships with adults

Youth who have experienced trauma or have an IEP are just as capable as other youth of being successful in higher education

Racism and Implicit Bias

- Black students are 3x more likely to be suspended or expelled than their white peers simply due to the color of their skin.
- Implicit bias- having an attitude towards people or associating stereotypes with them without our conscious knowledge

The Invisible Backpack

“I don’t want to go to college”

No one will understand me.

I’m not rich enough.

I’m not good enough.

I can’t trust anyone.

I’m scared.

No one cares about me or my future.

I’m stupid.

I always fail. Something is wrong with me.

Student Voices

Let's hear about these challenges
from a few of our youth.

How Caregivers Can Make a Difference?

The single most important factor influencing a positive outcome for youth is a...

lasting relationship with a caring, engaged adult.

Use a Trauma-Informed Parenting Approach

01

Patience is key - many youth are in “survival mode”

02

Acknowledge the trauma that youth have experienced

03

Avoid labels that the youth “isn’t college material”

04

Reinforce a growth mindset

Encouraging a Growth Mindset

Help youth reframe perceptions of their academic abilities

Encourage patience with the learning process

Reflect back to the youth their strengths and positive traits you have observed

Patience is key – many youth are in “survival mode”

If you are hearing this from a youth...	Try one of the following responses to help develop and maintain a growth mindset.
I am not smart enough to do this.	Being smart does not mean learning comes easy or you can do things by yourself all the time. Being smart means you use the tools and resources available to you for learning. That may mean asking for help sometimes.
This is too hard. I can't do this.	When something feels hard, it means we are challenging ourselves and our thought process to grow in new ways. I know with time and practice you will be successful. How can I help?
I will never be able to get this.	Remember to be patient with yourself. Just because you do not understand this yet does not mean you will never understand it. Who can we ask for help?
I totally failed. I am so dumb.	Learning from our mistakes can lead to future success. Let's see what we can learn from this experience to help us be successful next time.

Caregivers can create a college-going culture in the home

How to Create a College-Going Culture: Encourage & Motivate

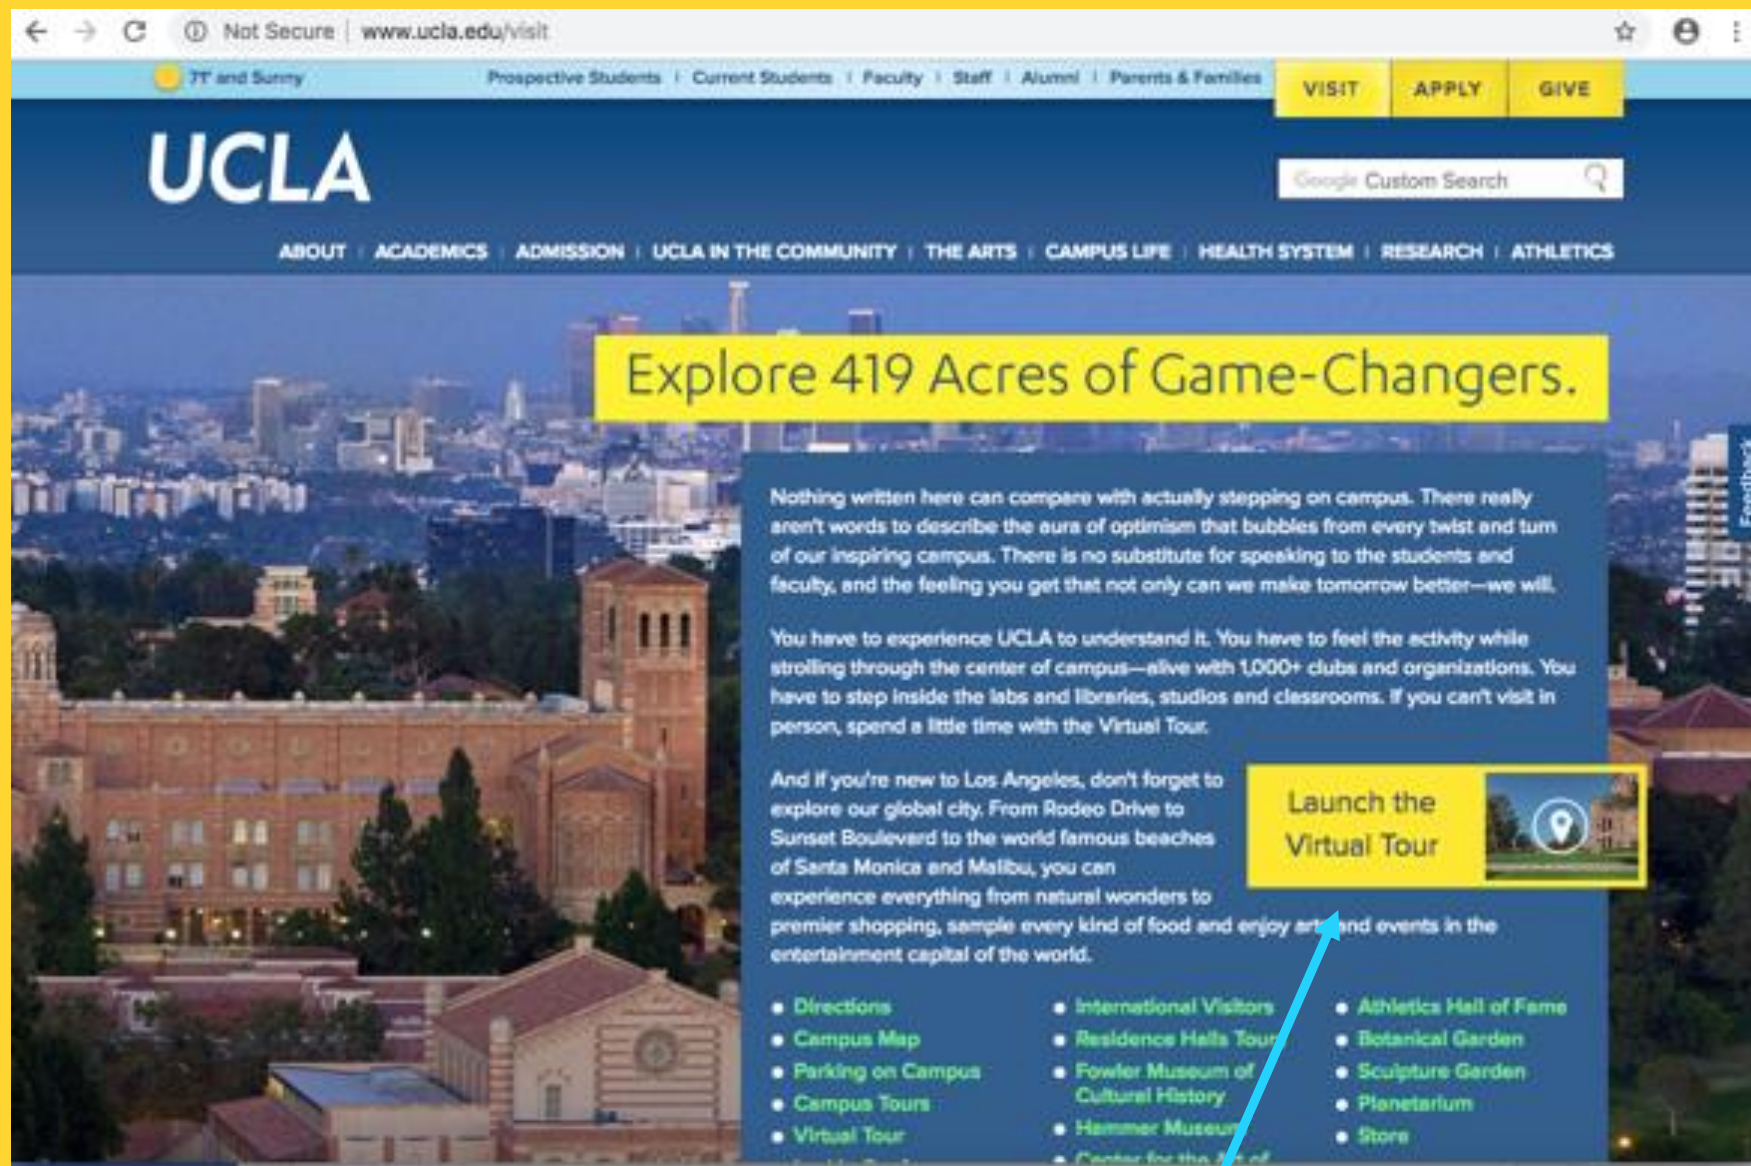

- Set high expectations – regardless of past academic performance
- Consistently express the expectation that the student will graduate from high school and go on to college
- Motivate from a young age
- Encourage a growth mindset

“No one rises to low expectations.”
– Les Brown

How to Create a College-Going Culture: Knowledge & Inspire Youth to Go to College

- Attend college tours, college fairs or college events
- Connect youth to foster care alumni who are enrolled in college
- Explain the differences between college and high school
- Discuss the long-term financial benefits
- Discuss the non-academic benefits of college

Virtual or in-person tours

How to Create a College-Going Culture: Keep Youth Accountable

- Regularly ask how they are doing in school.
- Instead of asking “How was school?”, ask specifics like “What did you learn in class today?” or “How did you feel about the math exam?”
- Check for homework completion and grades
- Provide incentives or rewards for positive school performance academically or behaviorally.

Student Voices

Motivating youth in care to attend college and helping them to overcome obstacles can make a difference.

Summary of Key Ways That Caregivers Can Support Youth Into Higher Education

- Use a trauma-informed parenting approach
- Encourage a growth mindset
- Use a "PACE" Attitude
- Create a college-going culture by:
 - Encouraging & motivating youth
 - Building their college-knowledge
 - Keeping youth accountable

Career & Technical Education (CTE)

- Can be shorter programs (ex: 12 - 18 months)
- High-quality, career-focused programs leading to good-paying jobs
- Financial aid is available
- Many are offered at community colleges, which foster youth can often attend for free
- Adult Education Career Technical programs offer range of options
- Job Corps is a free residential education and job training program

Earn a Plumbing Technology certificate at L.A. Trade Tech Community College and make $60,000!

Apprenticeship Programs

- 91% of apprentices retain employment after completing the apprenticeship
- Students earn an income while learning a trade
- Participants receive industry recognized credentials and can work towards a degree
- Students connect with mentors in a chosen industry
- Some programs may require an aptitude test and most require English proficiency

Learn more about apprenticeship programs by visiting:
www.dir.ca.gov/das/das.html

Average annual income is $50,000!

WARNING!

Proprietary or For-Profit (Private) Vocational Schools

- Costs more than similar community college programs
- High rates of student debt
- Poor job outcomes
- Some are under federal investigation
- Use extreme caution before enrolling and ensure the school is accredited
